TIP OF THE MONTH: Exfoliating Shower Gel-

Our Suspending Shower Gel is very thick and requires a lot of mixing to thoroughly blend in your exfoliant material and fragrance oil. We recently made several batches with Mango Papaya and Jojoba Meal, and discovered a few helpful tips. We used an electric drill (with a sterilized metal coat hanger for a bit) to mix right in the jug! Be warned, it takes a good deal of mixing! The shower gel will foam up and become cloudy looking until it settles for awhile. This gel is made with a special suspending agent that incorporates air bubbles, and therefore it will take quite awhile to fully settle and will need topping off. We found that because it is so thick, it was harder to pump out of the jug than lotion. It can be messy to pour free handed if you're not careful, but with a steady hand it can be done and actually seems to be faster in the end. Remember to always do a small test batch first to determine how each fragrance will perform, as some may cloud clear gels. Warming the gel may also cause clouding as well as thinning of the gel. This gel also works nicely without exfoliants, as a shaving gel for leas!
